Community fondly remembers Phyllis Moniot in so many wonderful ways

By MIKE GARRETT
The Chronicle-News

“The most amazing woman I’ve ever known,” “So tiny, but a ball of fire, a human dynamo,” or “How could anyone ever replace Phyllis and what she did for this community?” Those were just some of the comments and tributes heard around Trinidad this week from some of the thousands of people who knew Phyllis Moniot. Phyllis passed away at Pueblo’s Parkview Medical Center earlier this week from pneumonia and cancer complications.

Moniot touched so many lives in the Trinidad community that only God knows for sure how many and how she influenced people here during a 42-year career with the Las Animas County Department of Human Services and her countless fundraising and facilitating efforts on behalf of the Trinidad Catholic community, Trinidad Kiwanis Club and Trinidad & Las Animas County Chamber of Commerce, where she was a longtime ambassador.

To know Phyllis was to love her, and by natural extension, her food too. If there was good food (and there always was) at any Holy Trinity Academy fundraiser, community or Lenten fish fry or Catholic meeting or social gathering, chances are Phyllis cooked or baked a large portion of it and helped organize it. And if you are a big Colorado Rockies fan, you had a lot in common with one of Phyllis’ other life passions. As a baseball fan for more than 60 years, she could talk about the game and its players for hours, knew all the Rockies players’ accomplishments and was more than a little outspoken if anybody tried to shortchange or criticize her team in not giving them their just due. Phyllis attended every Rockies season opener for the past several years, including this season’s. She was equally passionate following the Holy Trinity Tigers in whatever sport they played.

Here is a sampling of comments from people who knew Phyllis in a personal or professional way: “I remember her pleasant personality all the time, constantly I never saw her in a bad mood,” said former 10-year Trinidad Mayor and longtime Catholic Church supporter Joe Reorda, who has known Phyllis “forever. It’s impossible to express the amount of stuff that she’s done for this community and it’s impossible to even think about replacing her.”

Jeanette Tapia, HTA administrative assistant and former student, spoke for the school when she said, “She (Phyllis) was extremely active in support of Trinidad Catholic and Holy Trinity. She was a member of our booster club, she was president of our Home and School Association at one time and was in the forefront when we were putting together Holy Trinity Academy in 2004.

“She headed up our kitchen for every fundraiser and dinner we’ve had,” said Tapia. “She did the pasta dinners, she did the fish fries, she did the barbecues at our Rock the Barn Festival. Not only was she huge in our family, but in the community as a whole. And when you look at her personal life, she raised her four children single-handedly by herself and did a tremendous job. She was just an amazing woman.

“She taught a class for us here right up until about a month ago when she got sick. She was here

Six students at Trinidad Middle School have been arrested for their alleged involvement with ingesting and/or distributing/exchanging Oxycodone tablets and marijuana at school, according to Trinidad Police. Because of their ages, ranging from 13-15, the suspects’ identities will not be released.

Trinidad Police released a detailed report on Thursday that contained the following synopsis.

The incident began at 11:20 a.m. on May 14, when Trinidad Police Dept. School Resource Officer Scott Fredericks was contacted by school radio and asked to respond to the middle school at 614 Park St. Upon arrival, Fredericks met with Principal Deana Dunford and Vice Principal Michael Guadagnoli, who said that a teacher, Palamino Simms, reported that one of her

Pioneer official addresses County Board of Commissioners

By DAVID J. SANTISTEVEN JR.
The Chronicle-News

At this week’s Las Animas County Board of Commissioners meeting, Tom Sheffield of Pioneer Natural Resources, USA, addressed the board about Pioneer’s status in Las Animas County. He covered the price of coal bed methane gas, working with the new mine coming to Las Animas County, mcf gas prices, Colorado Oil and Gas Conservation Commission (COGCC) regulations, and about giving tax breaks to companies to attract more business.

“We are staying,” Sheffield said. “We are not going anywhere! We are still working and waiting for gas prices to come back so we can get to drilling.”
